IRAN: A MASS UPRISING... WHERE COULD IT LEAD?

Saturday | 12pm PST
December 10 | (3pm EST)

The death of Mahsa (Jina) Amini after her beating by Tehran's so-called "morality police" has sparked one of the most significant and sustained protest movements in the history of the Iranian regime. What are the prospects for the movement, and what is the potential for the working class to organize a decisive breakthrough?

Morad Shirin, a revolutionary socialist activist and a member of the Iranian Revolutionary Marxists' Tendency, will be giving a presentation, followed by a discussion.
